

WINNERS OF $20 GOLD PIECES WILL BE ANNOUNCED TUESDAY

ENTHUSIASM, ENERGY AND EFFORT MEAN SUCCESS—COUNT THE DAYS THAT ARE LEFT FOR YOU TO GATHER SUBSCRIPTIONS IN—MAKE EVERY DAY COUNT—WORK WITH A MORE DETERMINED SPIRIT THAN EVER—THIS IS THE HOME STRETCH WEEK ONLY A FEW MORE DAYS OF GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

These are the days that the live, energetic people are doing every thing to get every subscriber possible. They realize that they have only a few more days of golden opportunity and will make every moment count.

It is not as easy to get subscriptions now as it was when the Contest was first started, and each day candidates will find it harder to secure them. The territory is being canvassed by earnest workers who are getting the subscriptions that are easiest to procure.

In a competition of this kind, like in the daily walk of life, someone will win and someone will lose. The reason is this: there are opportunities that present themselves and are as easy as breathing.

Enthusiasm is the greatest business asset in the world, it beats money and power and influence. An enthusiastic convinces and dominates where the wealth accumulated by a small party of workmen would scarcely raise a tremor.

Enthusiasm tramples over prejudice and opposition, spurs inaction, storms the citadel of its object, and like an avalanche overwhelms and conquers all obstacles.

Enthusiasm is nothing more nor less than faith in action. Faith and initiative, rightly combined, remove the mountainous barriers and achieve the unheard of and miraculous.

Set the goal of enthusiasm aloft in your campaign for votes; carry it in your attitude and manner. It spreads like a contagion and influences every fibre of your industry before you realize it.

Enthusiasm is something more nor less than faith in action. Faith and initiative, rightly combined, remove the mountainous barriers and achieve the unheard of and miraculous.

New York Cotton

New York, March 7.—There was a renewal of yesterday's late selling movement at the opening of the cotton market today and all deliveries except March made new low records for the season.

Cable was considered a shade better than day, but the local opening was barely steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points on all months except March, which was 2 points higher.

Table with columns: Open, Closed, Mar, Apr, May, Jun, Jul, Aug, Sep, Oct, Nov, Dec. Rows for various months and years.

New Orleans Cotton

New Orleans, La., March 7.—New low levels for the week and season were reached in the cotton market today under pressure from the bear side, said to be in sympathy with the stock market and liquidation of long cotton.

cables or to favorable features in the week end statistics. The net results of today's trading was a loss of 5 to 19 points, and closing prices were practically the lowest of the day on most months.

A fair volume of fresh buying for long account came in at the decline but the ring was unable to absorb offerings as fast as they appeared.

New York, March 7.—Cotton goods today ruled fairly steady but quiet. Wool and silk goods market continued active and strong. Cotton yards were barely steady.

Chicago, March 7.—Unwarranted belief that the government figures on farm reserves would be much over the average had a good deal to do today with depressing wheat. Grain and provisions close.

Wheat, May 23-4; July 27 5-8. Corn, May 23-8; July 27 7-8. Hogs strong; bulk of sale 855 a 865; pigs 875 a 825. Cattle slow; cows and heifers 865 a 855; calves 750 a 1085. Sheep weak; lambs 675 a 765.

Savannah, Ga., March 7.—Turpentine firm 45; sales none; receipts 36; shipments 129; stocks 15,998; rosin firm; sales 1,014; receipts 1,371; shipments 225; stocks 118,912.

will grow into her soul and become part of her very self. The boy who reads of deeds of manliness, of bravery and noble daring, feels the spirit of emulation grow within him, and the seed is planted which will bring forth fruit of heroic endeavor and exalted life.

UNCLE DAVE'S LETTER

"INFLUENCE OF LITERATURE"

The fable of the living tree, idealism, with its melodious, prophetic wavings of its world-wide boughs, deep-rooted as Holt, has died out; but in its place we have an accomplished fact, the printing press, with wider influence than fable ever foreshadowed, with power more potent than fable's philosophy ever dreamed of.

Mr. Southey understood it. "Literature will take care of itself," said a wit when applied to for some help for Burns. "Yes," added Mr. Southey, "it will take care of itself and of you too, if you do not look to it."

Carlyle saw its growing prospective power, when, seven years ago he proclaimed in his brave, resonant speech, "I say of all priesthoods, aristocracies, governing classes at present extant in the world, there is no class comparable for the importance to that priest-hood of the writers of books."

The art of writing and of printing, which is a sequence to it, is really the most wonderful thing in the world. Books are soul of actions, the only audible, articulate voice of the accomplished facts of the past. The men of antiquity are dead; their fleets and armies have disappeared, their cities are ruins, their temples are dust, yet all their chiefest and noblest qualities in the books they have bequeathed to us, and their names and their deeds are as familiar to us as the events of yesterday.

You may judge a man truly by the books and papers he reads more than by his associates are often in a manner forced upon him, but the reading is the result of choice.

of books and papers unconsciously comes more rooted in the opinions—the mind becoming—

Subdued to what works in like the dyer's hand.

We have seen of late to appear the various proofs of a controlling influence of literature. We can only state the undeniable facts. All the life and feeling of a young girl, fascinated by her love romance, is colored and shaped by the page she reads.

If it is false and weak and foolish, she will be false and weak and foolish too; but if it is true and tender and inspirit then something of its truth and tenderness and inspiration will tell how cooperation among the Farmers Pays.

Cooperation, which seems to be the watchword of the Twentieth Century, is growing in leaps and bounds. Cooperation, however, without adequate leadership, is quite apt to give small results.

The Excelsior Fruit Growers' Association of Minnesota has an example of this. For years it has existed and nothing more. Five years ago it was reorganized for better, and has since that time become the manager of the association. Within those five years he has seen the annual sales grow from $5,000 to something over $200,000.

These five years of experience in close contact with the growers and the buyers, have given Mr. McDonald a wide experience to add to his business training. He has developed the business as it should be done, and can state through and through and can develop new ones when necessary. Of course, their fruit is put up in standard packages and great care is used so that the buyer will be absolutely safe in securing exactly what he desires. A number system by which all of the growers stamp their packages, makes it possible to follow up each complaint from the commission men in the distant city.

When the officers of the Conference for Farmers and Dealers Men had learned through one of their field agents of the splendid work done by Mr. McDonald, they at once made arrangements to have him at their huge meeting in Louisville, April 7-8-9-10. Mr. McDonald will not only tell what they have done and how they did it, but he will demonstrate the whole of the work for small groups of fruit men so they may take the story back to their neighbors and develop like organizations. With a number of men of Mr. McDonald's type covering all of the cooperative activities of the country at this meeting, it should be a record breaker in numbers and enthusiasm.

Mrs. Newell—I believe the next door neighbors on the right are as true as church mice. How?

Mrs. Newell—Why they can't afford one of these mechanical piano players; the daughter is taking lessons by hand.

The Doctor—What you need is to perspire freely. I'd recommend a Turkish bath.

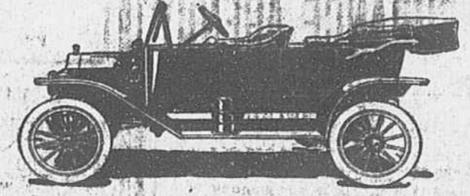

The Philosopher—You don't need it doctor. I can throw myself into a perspiration at any moment.

How?

MARTIN DRUG CO.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 7.—The Baptists of this city are to be made familiar with the plans of the Extension Society, which has been organized to interest the people with a view to further the interests of the church and to show them the results from the outlay which has been made this year. Meetings will be held in various of the churches throughout the city, and tomorrow a new church will be dedicated, Dr. W. C. P. Rhodes, of the Carey Avenue Baptist church, is greatly interested in the movement.
